Other

Books Read
- The Tipping Point – How Little Things Can Make a Big Difference by Malcolm Gladwell, New York: Little, Brown and Company, 2000. A very interesting study of what causes small things to make a big difference: (1) The right selection of a key small number of people to carry the message (2) Something that causes a idea to stick in the mind and (3) The right context where people will be willing and able to hear the message.
- Play of Consciousness by Swami Muktananda. The story of the spiritual life of the man who became the leader of the Siddha Yoga movement. I was taught his mantra by my psychiatrist who was one of his devotees.
- Living Buddha, Living Christ by Thich Nhat Hanh, Riverhead Books, 1995. Both the Buddha and Christ live in the hearts of current day believers and guide them to have virtuous lives. There are many similarities between the lives that the two faiths would have their believers live.

Personal
- Need to continually work at life balance and stress management.
- Organized a wonderful reunion of grade school friends from Los Alamos, New Mexico.
- Had some significant finds doing genealogy on my Norwegian ancestry – Fun!

- Chaired MPUUC Mental Health Committee which meets every 6-8 weeks
- Attended MPUUC Board meetings.
- Elected for a third year as secretary to the Tri Cities Interfaith Council at its monthly meetings.
