

Louise loved life & appreciated all that came with it - music, nature, new ways of looking at the world, friends, progressive and open minded people, intellectual conversation, laughing, singing and playing piano, whistling, wild birds, art, different cultures, & travel. She saw the best in most people and had a smile for everyone. Louise was extremely devoted to her family and showed a remarkable willingness to do whatever was possible and give all she had to make sure the people she loved were happy and well.

Louise is survived by her children, Lisa and David, daughter-in-law Alexandra, and grandchildren Benjamin and Alexander; and remembered by countless friends from her hometown, Warren, Ohio, Trumbull New Theater, the many choirs she sang with, and the Mission Peak Unitarian Universalist Congregation.

Excerpts from Gwen Frostic's Poem, A Place On Earth

In rivers and pools... swamplands and woodland glens...across the dunes and in the sunlit meadows ... life.. with all its beauty... its achievement over adversity...its promise of eternity... is taking place.

Here are living cells continuously dividing with streaming movements along fine threads within the plants...cells whose chemical reaction is so directed that each plant shall grow and reproduce its own.

There's splendor as each flower unfolds its mystic beauty to the earth... bright buttercups and daisies...fringed orchids... lovers of the swampland...whose tiny ballet blossoms dance with every breeze... and teasel in its armor of spines holds heads of intricate flowers high in the summer fields...and after the flowers...the fruit will form...and the seeds....and another miracle.

Under the leaves of Spring on the damp and sheltered earth a little brown nut cracks open.
